

Ephraim Chukwuma Okejiri

Ephraim Chukwuma Okejiri is the Director of Technology Transfer Registration at the National Office for Technology Acquisition and Promotion (NOTAP), in Nigeria. He completed his PhD (Technology Management) in 1998, at Obafemi Awolowo University, Ile-Ife in Nigeria.

He has been awarded several international fellowships to undergo capacity development programmes including: Commonwealth Scholarship to study Innovation Ecosystems at the University of Manchester; Kennedy School fellowship to attend the Science, Technology and Innovation Policy Executive Education Program at Harvard University; United Nations Fellowship to participate in the Design and Evaluation of Innovation Policy in Developing Countries, held in the Netherland; Netherlands Fellowship for courses on Management of the Environment, and Monitoring and Evaluation of projects and programmes among others.

Dr. Okejiri has handled many special assignments for the Federal Government of Nigeria and International Organizations such as Secretary, Committee on the Review of Operations of Technology Incubation Centres in Nigeria; Nigeria Focal Point of WIPO University Initiative, amongst other assignments.

He has special interest in understanding and improving the strategies used to develop interdependent systems of innovation and knowledge networks in order to strengthen indigenous technological capacity.