

Khaled Mansour

Khaled Mansour has a 27 years-experience in the Pharmaceutical Industry in the Middle East and Africa Regions. During this period he occupied several roles of increasing leadership and commercial responsibilities across the region. His current position is Managing Director for Middle East, West Asia and Africa (North Africa and French Speaking African countries). Khaled is a member of the Executive PhRMA committee for Middle East and Africa and the Head of the Local Ethics Review Board (LERB) for PhRMA member companies in the Middle East region.

He started career in 1984 teaching pharmacology. In 1989, he joined Eli Lilly in Saudi Arabia. In 1990, he joined Janssen, Johnson & Johnson in Saudi Arabia and assumed several positions of increasing sales and marketing and general management responsibilities including General Manager for Saudi Arabia, Egypt and the Gulf states. In 2006, he was promoted to Managing Director for Middle East, West Asia, Nigeria, Ghana and DRC. In 2008 his responsibility was expanded to include all French Speaking African Countries

Through his long and region wide experience Khaled combines broad and thorough understanding of the Middle East and Africa region's in terms of culture, business context, healthcare landscape, challenges and priority needs.